Building Foundations in Fraud

From the day I moved in and took occupancy in 1001 N. Water Street apartment 46 the foundations in fraud were being built with confusion as to which unit I lived in and had which lease names attached to it, for instance your online record keeping system showing two accounts billed separately, 46 and 46-46 and also on the fifth floor 56 and a switched out non building standard improvised unit 57 next to it, erasing that it was "56-56" in an armature of way of something in 57 trying to disavow 56.

Roadbloacking as it applies to MacLamar

In my apartment 46 the connecting chain between flushing arm and the stopper broke and for months the apartment management refused to fix the problem. I simply tied a piece of wire in place of the chain or used a pale of water to flush the toilet while I waited for the property manager to respond.

As I continuously pushed the point the Mac Lamar person upon arival said vaugely "I need to take a photo of that" and did and then said he need a flush kit which he did not have with him.

Not having the kit with him blocked him from the continuous chain of events of fixing my toilet and it appears from what I was able to hear in 46 he had gone a couple of floors below to 26 where a scene was staged of a peeping tom toilet and enraged community members outisde the windows skidding their cars around.

The service all to repair my toilet with a permanent solution is in non-performance and the property management call to some other location switch that location's activities into the start of my service call.

If members of the community were harmed by the activities in 26 then that could appear in the chain of events be a liability of mine which could be presented to asset managers and the community generally as a sham complaint about me, a false allegation.

If I am evicted for any such activities unfolding at other apartments confused with mine that is the manufacture of pretexts in conspiracy against rights and conspiracy against property.

From day one I moved in I had been told by a black in unit 40 that blacks were the "power race" and there seems to have been intentional provocations of racial give and take that has harmed my wish for peaceful relations with all.

Any dispute here was founded in frauds out of my control and the building is in nonperformance of service calls and living conditions.
